A premier club for a premier city

CARDIFF City have been crowned as the winners of the Championship and are now preparing for life in football's top flight.

The promotion is great news for the whole city as it has been estimated that in having a Premier League club Cardiff will reap important economic benefits.

It is expected that Cardiff City's success will create hundreds, if not thousands, of new jobs, strengthen the visitor economy and showcase the city to a global television audience.

Cardiff Council is particularly delighted at the club's promotion as it was the Council, in 2003, who worked in partnership with the club to put in place the vision for the new City Stadium at Leckwith. Cardiff Council Leader Heather Joyce said: "This is a fantastic achievement by the club and I am so delighted that Cardiff City has realised its ambition and made it into the Premier League. I would like to pay tribute to everyone at the club - the team, the manager, the staff and the fans - for all contributing to this wonderful achievement.

"I know that promotion has also been the major goal for the owners of the club and I think they also deserve great credit alongside City's many loyal fans who have shown their commitment season upon season.

"Having Premier League football in Cardiff is vitally important for this city. As a capital we're used to hosting major events but Premier League football has been the missing piece in our sporting jigsaw so it is really thrilling that Cardiff will now be able to host some of the biggest names in world football such as Manchester United, Chelsea and Liverpool."

She added: "The administration has been working closely with the club to understand all the opportunities that Premier League football will give to the city and this work will now continue. Well done City!"

A day in a life

The latest in a regular series looking at jobs carried out by council employees. This month, City Centre Area Manager, Simon Grant, Traffic Control Operator at the Cardiff Control Room talks to Capital Times.

THE control room based at County Hall boasts 112 monitors streaming live pictures from hundreds of cameras across Cardiff, and is the first of its kind in the UK to be shared by both council officers and the police force.

The room we share is split into two sections, the Council oversees 52 monitors and South Wales Police look after 60. We work together to share cameras and information. My role is to monitor the traffic and roads in and around Cardiff to ensure the traffic is flowing freely.

The control room is manned 24 hours a day, seven days a week and is open 365 days a year. There are three shift patterns of morning, afternoon and lates. Every shift is different and has different priorities; a week day rush hour morning shift is very different to a Saturday night.

On a week day there are two people looking after the monitors, with one team member paying particular attention to the Butetown Tunnels.

Through the day we monitor the cameras across the city and also we have a number of systems that pick up on any issues that could be affecting traffic equipment and sensors.

Should the system set off an alarm it would be myself or a colleague's responsibility to investigate further and report it to the relevant department.

The job is very varied and attention to detail is very important. In the five and a half years I have worked here I have come accustomed to how certain parts of the city should look at certain times of the day.

My eyes have certainly adapted to spotting any potential problems on the network. Cars breaking down in certain hot spots like the Butetown Tunnels can cause the biggest disruption. It's our job to react to these issues and, working with the officers based in the same room as us, we can get a police presence at the scene as soon as possible to remove a broken down car and to get the traffic flowing once more.

It's not just cars that can cause problems on the roads, our four-legged friends can sometimes also be problematic. Recently we spotted a dog walking along the A48 and we had to react quickly to make sure the dog was removed safely as to not cause harm to any motorists. Thankfully everything went to plan and no incidents occurred.

During special events in the city there is obviously an increase in traffic and particularly during the end of rugby matches or concerts there is a high flux of people travelling around the city at one time. On these days there is the potential for an increase of traffic issues that could affect the network. Weather is another factor that can influence how the city runs and if we see areas which are particularly affected we will make our colleagues in highways aware.

My job is very unique and I know I'm very lucky to get such a great birdseye view of the city without leaving my desk!

Have your say at the Cardiff 50+ Forums

A real voice for Cardiff's older citizens

THE population of Wales is an ageing one, with figures identifying that one in four Welsh adults are aged 65 or over, and that in 20 years time this will rise to 1 in 3.

In Cardiff, nearly 100,000 people are over the age of 50 which is 30 per cent of the city's population.

Getting the views of people who are over 50 is more important than ever. Older people need to decide what services are important to them and how they feel they want to live their lives in the future and in their local community.

As a result Cardiff Council has established new 50+ Forums across the city.

Following feedback from partner organisations, Welsh Government, the Older Person's Commissioner for Wales, UK Ageing Cities Network, and more importantly older people across Cardiff, the Council has worked hard to develop a mechanism so people who are 50+ in Cardiff can get their voices heard and ensure local and city wide issues for older people are addressed.

Councillor Luke Holland, Cardiff Council's Older Persons Champion, said: "I am extremely excited about these new arrangements. It will ensure the Council and our partners engage better with people who are 50+. I am committed to act on the common themes across the city to make Cardiff a better place to live for people who are 50+."

There will be six new 50+ forums set up across the city which will link into the neighbourhood management areas that all the partners – such as the Council, Police, Health and the Third Sector – in Cardiff work in.

Having localised forums will ensure community issues can be identified and tackled quicker. Representatives from each area will then meet centrally in a city wide meeting to discuss any major issues and task groups will be set up.

There will be a series of local launch events in May and June which will give people the opportunity to raise both the positive aspects of being older in Cardiff and also some of the barriers which people may face.

The new forums are:

Cardiff West:

Creigiau, Fairwater, Llandaff, Llandaff North, Morganstown, Pentyrch, Radyr, St Fagans, Tongwynlais and Whitchurch.

Cardiff South-West:

Caerau, Canton, Ely and Riverside

City and Cardiff South:

Butetown, Cathays (part) and Grangetown

Cardiff South-East:

Adamsdown, Cathays (part), Gabalfa, Plasnewydd and Splott

Cardiff East:

Llanrumney, Rumney and Trowbridge

Cardiff North:

Cyncoed, Heath, Lisvane, Llanishen, Old St Mellons, Pentwyn, Penylan, Pontprennau and Rhiwbina.

• If you would like to be involved in any of these new forums please contact Andrew Lucas, Cardiff Councils Citizen Focus Older Person Officer, on 029 2087 2536 or email CitizenFocus@cardiff.gov.uk

Take our advice at Marland House

THE launch of an advice hub at Marland House has heralded a new era for advice services in Cardiff.

With changing benefits and household budgets being squeezed, providing residents with a quick and easy way to access advice has never been more important.

Council advisors are available to help people with their finances, benefits, housing, Council Tax, consumer issues as well problems people may have with their gas and electricity bills.

The Citizens Advice Bureau and Somali Progressive Association are also permanently based at the new hub, with staff on hand to help.

Credit Union, Want to Work, Shelter and many other organisations will also be available at the hub.

The hub can also help people who are being affected by the Government's Welfare Reform programme such as the Under Occupation or 'Bedroom Tax' which is impacting thousands of people across the city. The rule means that the majority of Council and Housing Association tenants with one or more spare rooms are having their housing benefit reduced.

Councillor Lynda Thorne, Cabinet Member for Communities, Housing and Social Justice, said: "We are living in very difficult times where the poorest in our communities are being financially squeezed. It is so important that the Council does everything it can to help people who are facing difficulties and the new advice hub at Marland House will act as an important place for people who need support."

The new service is available on the first floor of Marland House and builds on the very successful service council services already offered in the ground floor offices.

Mohammed Akmal, is a customer who recently visited Marland House and recommends that others do the same. He said: "I find the services at Marland House very useful and believe the new services at the advice hub can only be good for Cardiff."

Another customer, Kelly Andrews, added: "Staff have always been very helpful. I didn't know much about the new services before but think they're excellent."

• The advice hub is at Marland House on Central Square (next to the bus station). Opening times are: Monday to Wednesday 8.45am until 5pm; Thursday 10am until 6.30pm; Friday 8.45am until 5pm. For more information call 029 2087 1000, visit www.cardiff.gov.uk/thehub or email advicehub@cardiff.gov.uk

Thousands flock to jobsfair

HUNDREDS of jobs were available at a recent jobsfair held at City Hall.

With more than 50 employers on board, the "More than a Jobsfair" provided an opportunity for people to find out more about a wide variety of job prospects including the armed forces, hospitality, catering, retail and call centre sectors.

More than 3,600 people attended the event and many employers held interviews on the day in attempt to recruit candidates. Job seekers were also able to brush up their CVs, obtain advice on Universal Jobmatch and attend various talks and motivational lectures given on the day.

Cardiff Council Leader Councillor Heather Joyce said: "The jobsfair was another huge success. Thousands of people attended and it is very pleasing that people were able to find employment."

"As part of our ongoing commitment to create jobs and opportunities for young people who are not in education, training or employment, we secured apprenticeship places and made ongoing training placements for under 24 year olds available at the event. This initiative is part of an ongoing partnership with Careers Wales and Cardiff's Youth Council to create real life chances for young people."

The "More than a Jobsfair" was organised by Cardiff Council's Local Training and Enterprise team in partnership with, Jobcentre Plus, Careers Wales and Cardiff Youth. Among the companies recruiting were Hilton, Lloyds Banking Group, Admiral, British Gas, Completely Care, Sainsbury's, Sword Security, Buttercups Nursery, Serco, Angel Hotel, and Apollo Teaching.

Councillor Joyce added: "It is very important during these difficult economic times that we work with local communities to promote job opportunities for local people. With events like this we are doing everything we can help people get back to work."

Zero tolerance to litter

If you don't want the fine, don't do the crime

CARDIFF Council is urging everyone to drive out the 'usual suspects' from Cardiff's grime scene to help keep the capital clean.

The Usual Suspects campaign aims to identify different types of litter and waste that blight our city and costs £7m a year to clean.

Dog mess, general litter, cigarette butts, chewing gum and fly-tipping are seen all too regularly on our streets and the council wants help in stamping it out.

Cabinet Member for Environment, Ashley Govier said: "We spend £7m of council taxpayers' money keeping our streets clean and we feel the frustration every bit as much as the majority of our residents who dispose of their litter in a responsible way.

"Cardiff is a city that is regularly on show across the world as we host so many high profile sporting and cultural events. It is a major strength that we can put on blue riband events so well with a range of council departments pulling out all the stops to support them. We can all do our bit to enhance our world wide reputation even further by thinking about how we get rid of the litter we all produce."

He added: "This administration is taking a zero tolerance approach and will fine people if we catch them making a mess of our city. We have increased our enforcement teams and a system of penalties is in place ranging from a £75 fixed penalty notice for dropping gum to £50,000 or a prison sentence for fly-tipping. The message is simple, if you don't want the fine, don't do the crime."

Pupils in Severn Heaven

CHILDREN from Severn Primary School in Canton have been giving Nigella, Delia and Jamie a run for their money by developing their own delicious, finger-licking recipes.

As part of their aim of becoming a Fairtrade school, classes went head to head during a week-long contest when they researched, tweaked and finally made their own snacks using Fairtrade ingredients in a bid to be crowned school master chefs.

Unsurprisingly, Fairtrade chocolate featured heavily in each of the classes' creations and having practiced their recipes throughout the week, with parents being treated to tasters in the school yard, Severn Primary teachers selected the best recipe from each year to go forward to an end of the week final cook-off.

Two pupils from each year then remade their recipes again which were put to the test by a panel of judges including school kitchen manager Julie Bois, Fairtrade representative Jan Tucker from Fairtrade shop Fair Do's and PTA representative Rebecca How.

The panel tickled their tastebuds with Year 3's chocolate and banana smoothies, Year 4's rocky road biscuits, Year 5's double chocolate muffins and Year 6's fruit and chocolate flapjacks, quizzing the young chefs on their ingredients, method and what they knew about Fairtrade products.

After much deliberation, Year 4 pupils Rachel Vu and Aisha Ilyas were crowned master chefs and presented with certificates by deputy headteacher Judith Allen.

Severn Primary teacher, Anna Foster, said: "We are applying to become a Fairtrade school this year so this week's events will support our application, as well as other activities we have organised like a Fairtrade coffee morning, Fairtrade Christmas stall and trips to the Fairtrade shop.

"This week the children have been learning about Fairtrade ingredients and they will be able to put into practice the things they learn in the classroom when they go to the supermarket with their families and can choose Fairtrade products and know that they really are making a difference."

• Severn Primary's Fairtrade recipes are available on the school website, www.severnprn.sch.uk under Latest News.

• Aisha Ilyas and Rachel Vu proudly show off their gold awards.

Biodiversity Corner

Biodiversity is all living things. It provides us with food, clothing, medicine, building materials and fuel. It helps reduce stress and aids relaxation. Each month Cardiff Council ecologist Matthew Harris will point out some of the great biodiversity you can see across the city.

MAY/JUNE

The month of May gives its name to some of our most familiar wildlife.

Hawthorns have a number of folk-names such as May, Mayflower and White-May, which all refer to the time when their white blossom appears. However, Hawthorns support wildlife all year round through their leaves, berries and the shelter they provide. They support over 150 insect species, such as the handsome Hawthorn Shield-bug which in turn provide food for birds, many of which nest among its dense, spiny branches.

Mayflies only live in clean fast-flowing water, so are a good indicator of a healthy environment. Their larvae and adults are important food for freshwater fish and other creatures. Their adult life may last only a day or even just a few hours, but most of their lifespan is spent out of sight as aquatic nymphs. Though adults may emerge throughout the year, the common name comes from the peak period of emergence when the Hawthorn, or Mayflower, is in bloom. I'll be back next month with more biodiversity attractions.

Enterprise Exchange offers real opportunities

AN innovative scheme to build bridges between employers and education providers is underway in the city.

Cardiff Council's Enterprise Exchange programme aims to develop stronger relationships between local businesses and students, with a strong focus on helping young people improve their employability skills and increase their chances of employment.

The project involves all 22 secondary schools in the city and at least 68 businesses including Tesco, John Lewis, BT, Regus, Centrica and Radisson Hotels. It also includes an 'enterprise exchange' where employers and schools discuss how they can work together on a variety of projects and work placements.

As part of the programme

23 students from Glyn Derw, Cantonian and Fitzalan High Schools, Radyr Comprehensive and Michaelston Community College were given four day work placements in Park Inn hotel in the city centre, learning about roles and responsibilities.

This culminated in a challenge to host a three-course charity dinner, with entertainment for 68 local employers, representatives from local schools, colleges and universities.

Sam Curwen, a year 10 student from Radyr Comprehensive School, worked in sales and service at the hotel. He said: "I really enjoyed working in service the most. I've become more confident about greeting guests and speaking with people."

Emily Smith-Jaymes, also from Radyr, worked on the bar, reception and service. She said "My experience has given me more self-confidence. I'm not afraid to talk to people I don't know now and I'm not afraid to ask questions."

Leader of Cardiff Council Heather Joyce said: "We need to work with employers, schools, colleges and universities to ensure all of our young people are supported in developing the skills they need to meet their aspirations.

"This enterprise exchange aims to offer experience and employability skills, which will prepare these students for the workplace. I am confident that as the enterprise exchange scheme develops, it will prove a successful partnership for the businesses involved and the young people in Cardiff it will impact upon, preparing them for life after education."

The sun comes out for another record breaking RHS Show

Photographs by RHS/Jason Ingram

THIS year's Royal Horticultural Society Flower Show Cardiff was heralded a great success as more than 22,000 people flocked to Bute Park to enjoy the first proper sunny weekend of spring.

Around 9,000 people attended the event on Saturday alone, which was a best-ever figure in the nine year history of the Cardiff show.

This year the event rounded off the RHS National Gardening Week and boasted blooms produced by the country's finest nurseries, show gardens by multi-award winners, entertainment and activities for the whole family, and gardening advice and guidance from the numerous RHS experts on hand.

Successful designers included 14 times RHS award winner Anthea Guthrie who worked with Heronsbridge Special School in Bridgend to create her 'Artful Bodger's Garden' which was awarded a prestigious Gold Medal and Best Show Garden by the rigorous RHS judges.

Another unexpected success was the 'Up-cycle' garden created almost entirely from recycled materials by first time designers Vicky Wade and Andrew Nicol, who scooped Gold first time out, a rare honour with the RHS.

High achiever Ron Scamp of Cornwall's Quality Daffodils was celebrating his ninth Gold, and seventh Best Exhibitor in Show award for the fantastic display of spring blooms which again delighted the crowds. This year Ron launched his Doctor Who Daffodil to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the BBC show which is now filmed in Cardiff.

This year's ever-popular Schools Wheelbarrow Competition featured some 50 schools under the theme of a 'Wheely Good Read', inspired by the very first Cardiff Children's Literature Festival in March, and received a huge public vote. It was won by Moorland Primary, with Coed Glas Primary second and Ty Gwyn School third.

Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Huw Thomas, who visited the show himself, said: "The weather provided a huge boost to the RHS and I am delighted that record crowds attended this popular event. Bute Park provides the perfect setting for the show and during my visit it was clear people were having a great time. We enjoy a good relationship with the RHS and the countdown has already begun for the 2014 event."

News in brief

Pencaerau Primary achieves Gold Award

A Cardiff primary school has become one of the very few schools in Wales to be awarded the Investors in People Gold Award.

Pencaerau Primary School in Caerau was established through the amalgamation of Cwrt Yr Ala Junior School, Caerau Infant School and Caerau Nursery School in 2010 and by gaining the award, the school is among the very top of organisations for best people management in the UK.

Headteacher Helen Turner said: "This award is a wonderful opportunity to acknowledge all the hard work and practices that take place at Pencaerau. I am extremely pleased at the fact that the Investors in People Gold award illustrates how well we work as a team in delivering the highest standards of education for the children of this area."

Local Authority Caterers Association Success

CARDIFF Catering, the Council's catering service, has earned recognition from its industry peers at the Local Authority Caterers Association (LACA) Wales Awards.

In the annual awards scheme, which acknowledges individuals and teams who make a real difference in education catering, Riverbank Special School in Caerau picked up the award for Welsh primary school catering team of the year while the Council's catering team won the Welsh marketing award.

The Cardiff Catering team scooped the marketing award for implementing new ways to increase the uptake of primary school meals including the use of Twitter, themed meal days on St David's Day, Australia Day and Chinese New Year and promoting an interest in healthy food and cooking skills with children.

Expressions of interest sought

THE Council is seeking expressions of interest to provide sustainable futures for the Cardiff Riding School and Flatholm Island, with a deadline of May 26.

If you are interested in obtaining further information or arranging a site visit then contact Dave Westerland on 029 2087 7939 / e-mail DFWesterland@cardiff.gov.uk for Flatholm Island and Keith Wood on 029 2052 9230 / e-mail Kwood@cardiff.gov.uk regarding the Cardiff Riding School.

New transport depot is the wheel deal

A new state-of-the-art transport depot has been opened by Cardiff Council Leader Heather Joyce.

The purpose built workshops in Coleridge Road are the new home to the council's Central Transport Services, allowing staff to maintain and repair the Council's entire fleet of 850+ vehicles.

Built to the highest industry standards, the depot includes an MOT facility that will be open to the public from Monday to Friday between 7am and 7pm.

It also includes a Vehicle and Operator Services Agency (VOSA) approved authorised testing facility lane, which has been designed and set up for testing commercial vehicles over 3.5 tonnes or passenger carrying vehicles used for hire.

Other features include a commercial vehicle wash, a dedicated tyre change facility and a new fuelling facility that together creates a one-stop shop for the Council's vehicle fleet.

The depot has been designed to the highest standards and has an anticipated BREEAM (Building Research Establishment's Environmental Assessment Method) rating of very good.

Cardiff Council Leader, Councillor Heather Joyce, said: "This new depot will be used to look after and repair all of our vehicles - from rubbish trucks to gritters. This will help ensure that the council's vital front line services continue to be supported in the most effective and efficient way.

"Environmental and sustainability concerns were at the forefront of the design process for this new depot which will also boast 11 maintenance bays, a fabrication workshop, a store facility, changing rooms and mess facilities, a workshop reception, a driver waiting area, and office accommodation."

• Council Leader Heather Joyce officially opens the depot.

Pentyrch open day adds up

PUPILS and parents at Pentyrch Primary School took a stroll back through the decades when the school recently hosted an open day with a difference.

The school community was invited to attend the special day when the classroom doors were thrown open and teachers and pupils demonstrated how the teaching of mathematics has changed and advanced over the years.

Decked in the costumes of the time, classes took part in 'Victorian times' workshops with boys sporting flat caps and girls wearing the mop caps and pinafores of the 19th Century, using chalk and slate boards in lessons focussing on imperial measurements and how the monetary system worked with its farthings, shillings and guineas.

In the 'World War Two' lessons, the children adopted austere clothes with their boxes containing the necessary gas masks of the time placed neatly on their desk, while in the 'Maths in the Seventies' demonstration, pupils wore a psychedelic mishmash of patterns, frayed waistcoats, headbands and even the odd orange wig.

Parents and guests at the open day were shown examples of best practice taking place at Pentyrch Primary and had the chance to speak to staff and ask questions as well as finding out how they could help their children to develop their maths skills at home.

Interim headteacher, Helen Turner, said: "A great day was had by all and feedback from the sessions was extremely positive. Many parents were asking when the next open day was going to be."

One Planet Cardiff Festival

A festival celebrating sustainability and giving advice on how people can live greener and more sustainable lives is taking place in June.

The One Planet Cardiff Festival, which runs from Friday, June 14 to Sunday, June 16, is a programme of three events focussing on how people and communities in Cardiff are learning to do their bit for the environment.

One Planet Cardiff Schools on Friday, June 14 takes place at the Wales Millennium Centre in Cardiff Bay. Primary and secondary schools in Cardiff will celebrate their environmental achievements and think about what they can do to improve cycling to school, reduce waste, and be smarter in their water and energy use.

On Saturday, June 15,

(11am to 5pm) the One Planet Cardiff Festival takes place at the Wales Millennium Centre and in Cardiff Harbour. This is a free event which is open to all, bringing together a wide range of interactive activities, information stands and family friendly fun.

The festival will include solar powered live music, information stands, locally sourced food, locally made crafts, health and relaxation therapies, face painting, street entertainers, and lots more.

The One Planet Cardiff Festival will also see the launch of Cardiff Cycle Week with a number of cycling workshops taking place.

On Sunday, June 16 at Chapter Arts Centre (12 noon onwards) the One Planet Cardiff Film event will take place with a range of films, lectures and debates on the One Planet theme. Chapter Arts Centre will also be culminating its UK Green Film Week with various stalls and workshops available.

Councillor Ashley Govier, Cabinet Member for Environment, said: "The One Planet Cardiff Festival will once again celebrate the work that residents and organisations are doing within the capital to make Cardiff a sustainable place to live.

"There is so much to recognise and champion and this festival is a brilliant way of promoting all the brilliant work that is going on as well as helping to educate others who want to improve their green credentials."

Community groups granted improvements

VOLUNTARY groups in the city have the opportunity to apply for up to £5,000 from Cardiff Council to improve their community buildings.

The Community Buildings Grant scheme can help with projects such as structural repairs and alterations, safety and security improvements, energy efficiency measures and better access.

The projects must fall under one of the following criteria:

- Improvements to the structure of the building.
- Upgrading of fire safety, health and safety and security provisions.
- New kitchens or toilet facilities.
- Improving access into and within the building.
- Upgrading of electrical, drainage and lighting systems.
- Installation of double glazing windows and doors.
- Installation of energy efficiency measures.

Councillor Lynda Thorne, Cabinet Member for Communities, Housing and Social Justice, said: "The Community Building Grant Scheme is an excellent opportunity for groups across the city to improve the facilities they offer to their users, helping them to expand their role in providing activities and services for local communities."

One of the groups that was awarded a grant last year was The Mackintosh Centre based in Plasnewydd.

The building is well used by various sections of the community and the grant enabled them to provide a lift to their first floor, making it more accessible for users with disabilities.

The Mackintosh Centre's manager, Paul Daley said: "The Council's Community Building Grant has been very useful in helping us to improve the facilities that we can offer to the local community. It has had a very positive impact upon our building and our users, especially those who most benefit from easier access."

The deadline for applications is June 22 and interested groups should contact the Neighbourhood Regeneration team on 029 2087 3162 or jamesmoore@cardiff.gov.uk as soon as possible to discuss ideas or find out more information.

THE Lord Mayor of Cardiff, Councillor Derrick Morgan has congratulated Cardiff Foodbank after it won a public vote to be awarded £80,000.

The Lord Mayor recently visited the charity and during his tour around the premises - based at Station Terrace, Ely - placed his online vote for the Cardiff Foodbank as part of the Comic Relief and Netmums' competition.

The Cardiff Foodbank launched in 2009 as a franchise of the Trussell Trust and is part of the National Foodbank Network. It is a project to help and support those who need assistance in providing food for their families.

Councillor Morgan, said: "I would like to send my congratulations to the team at the Cardiff Foodbank, this is truly wonderful news. I was lucky enough to see first hand the great work the team are doing in Cardiff and spoke to many of the volunteers who are so passionate about their roles.

"The foodbank helps the most vulnerable in our community and gives them support when they need it most. The Red Nose Grant will enable the team to expand its warehousing and distribution services which mean they can help even more people in need.

"I would also like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who made this competition possible and for everyone who voted for Cardiff Foodbank, their vote has truly made a difference and they should be very proud."

A spokesperson from Cardiff Foodbank, said: "We were so grateful for the support of so many within the Council on many different levels - Facebook, Twitter, emails, canvassing and we were delighted that the Lord Mayor could visit and vote during the campaign, and for his hearty congratulations as we celebrate with so many the £80,000 we will receive."

Cardiff City triumph at Down's Syndrome Football Festival

IT'S not just the Cardiff City first team that have been taking the football world by storm this season.

The club has also triumphed at the Premier League's Down's Syndrome Football Festival which took place recently at the Albion Foundation in West Bromwich.

Fourteen teams from the Down's Syndrome Association (DSA) DSAActive programme took part in the third annual festival, which involved more than 150 players and 700 spectators.

Cardiff City finished the tournament unbeaten after great results against Ipswich Town (10 – 0), QPR (5 – 5), Newcastle United (9 – 0) and the previous two season's winners, Charlton Athletic (2 – 0), to be crowned National Champions for 2013.

The team worked really hard with their coaches and what has been a great year of sport for Wales.

Cardiff City DS Bluebirds head coach Chris McDermott said: "Our players have improved greatly in the last three years and are excited all year round about competing in events like this.

"They are a committed group and work hard every week while having fun. They really are a true credit to Cardiff City Football Club.

"Credit also has to go to the committed parents who bring them every week, but also to the coaches who work tirelessly

Direct Payments

Your Care, Your Way

If you have had an assessment that shows you are eligible for social care services you may prefer to organise your services yourself rather than let the council do this for you.

This is called Direct Payments.

What are Direct Payments?

Direct Payments are a type of personal budget with regular payments made to people with assessed care needs or a named 'suitable person' so that they can choose, control and pay for social care services directly. The principle of Direct Payments is to allow people to take greater control over the care and support they receive.

What are the benefits of Direct Payments?

- You take more of the decisions that affect your life.
- Day-to-day control of the money and provision of your care is given to you, the service user.
- More flexibility and choice, enabling you to purchase care that is better suited to your individual needs.
- You make arrangements directly so that any staff you employ report to you.
- You organise the timetable for your care.
- You can receive care in your home from an independent care provider of your choice.

Please quote 'Capital Times' when contacting us.

"Direct Payments has given me freedom as I can choose who cares for me and when. I was also trained in how to look after my accounts, so even though Diverse Cymru calculate my staff wages, I am able to take care of my direct payment account and paperwork. They give you a lot of valuable support."

Martin

"Direct Payments has had an enormous positive impact on me and my family's quality of life. With the assistance of my allocated Direct Payment support worker I have been empowered to interview and employ my own Personal Assistants. This choice has enabled me to have the package of care that best suits my individual needs."
